Union Friendly Society.

A social society that will be known as the U. F. S., was organized last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Helen Metzger, on Fifth street. Invitations had been issued to twenty-five young people, representing all the religious denominations in Emporium, and sixteen persons were present at the first meeting. The organization of the U. F. S., is the outcome of the former Friendly Society, started by the Rev. Geo. H. Johnston, formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church. The old society was disbanded last spring. Business and social meetings will be held once every month and all persons who received cards are requested to be present at the next meeting which will be held the third Thursday evening of November, at which time the society will be entertained by Max F. Balcom at his home on Sixth street.

Pleasant Visitor.

Mr. William Viner, of Arden, N. Y., was a pleasant PRESS caller, last Friday, accompanied by his brother, Mr. Edward Viner. William Viner and wife have been visiting their two sons at Omaha, Neb., and Denver, Col., both filling responsible positions on the Union Pacific R. R., through the intercession of the late E.H. Harriman, in whose employ Mr. Viner has been since he left Emporium, fifteen years ago. Their visit here, as guests of Edward Viner and family, was pleasant—meeting many old-time friends, this being their first visit to Emporium in that time. They found many changes in Emporium and noted with pleasure the many improvements made since they left.

When W. A. McClellan and Wm. Viner went to Arden, N. Y., fifteen years ago to accept positions under Mr. Harriman they struck a lucky lead. The former is Supt. of the Arden Stores, while Mr. Viner is Supt. of the Arden Dairy Farms, and both must be capable men or they would not be filling such responsible positions.

J. M. ROBERTSON, Rector.

Information Wanted.

The PRESS is in receipt of the following inquiry from Mrs. Permelia Dodson, of Hunlocks Creek, Luzerne county, Pa.: "Clinton Dodson, aged 82 years, nine months and fifteen days, fell from an apple tree, injuring his left side; died of pneumonia, Oct. 15th, 1909. We think a grand-son of his resides in your county." We called on Robt. C. Dodson, druggist, of this place, who examined his "family book" and believes the deceased was cousin of his father, Dr. M. D. L. Dodson, who died in Florida, Nov. 11th, 1892.

A Warning to Hunters.

There is law which forbids hunting on Sunday and a heavy fine is imposed on the person caught doing so. People inclined to go hunting on Sunday should take warning from this notice as the game wardens are looking into the matter. Complaint has been made to us of persons residing at and near Cameron of breaking this law and in order not to have any trouble we wish to caution them, thereby saving paying a heavy fine. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

Upholstering and Repairing.

Henry Jaeger, the Fourth Street Harness Maker, is a practical upholsterer and desires the public, having any work in his line to call and see his large line of samples and learn prices, which are reasonable. No need in sending such work out of town. Satisfaction guaranteed. 37-tf.

Champion Bear Hunter.

Mr. C. E. Logue, of First Fork, claims he is the champion bear hunter in this county, having captured alive and killed five this season. Mr. Logue has two live bears now and the pelts of three and the heads for mounting. Mr. L., would like to hear from the rest of the Cameron county bear hunters and no doubt he will hear from Woods Kelley, Allen Russel and James Batchelder.

Death of a Prominent Teacher.

Died at Hicks Run, Pa., October 19. 1909, Lois Miller, daughter of William Miller, deceased, and Mrs. Justina Miller.

MISS LOIS MILLER was about nineteen years old at the time of her death. Although so young, she was teaching her second term of school at Castle Carden when overtaken by the dread disease, typhoid fever.

She started for her home on Huston Hill, but on reaching Hicks Run, found herself too weak to proceed further and remained at the residence of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Barr. A trained nurse was procured and every effort was made to restore her to health, but in vain. Her pure and lovely soul was released from her pain-racked body Tuesday, Oct. 19th, 1909, and passed into God's keeping.

The funeral was held Thursday afternoon at three o'clock, Rev. S. Ebersole, of Sterling Run, having charge of the services. Although the weather was most unfavorable, the hall at Hicks Run was crowded with those who sought to pay their last respects to the young teacher, called so soon to resign her work on earth.

The utmost sympathy is felt by every one for the heart-broken family; mother, who, left a widow when Lois was but a tiny child, faced the world bravely and brought up a family of six children to noble manhood and womanhood.

Seldom has been such a funeral as that of Lois Miller, were in the vast crowd there were so many mourners, where even strangers were moved to "weep with those who wept" for the untimely death of a noble young woman.

Her body was laid to rest in Hicks Run cemetery beside her father, who died before her memory.

It is such a death as this, our finite minds cannot understand, but "God knoweth best."

An Enjoyable Dance.

The dance held at the opera house last Tuesday evening in honor of the teachers of Cameron county was a very great success and was heartily enjoyed by all present. The music was furnished by Messrs. Harold Seger, at the piano, and Lawrence Fisk at the drums. The floor was in elegant condition and with the crowd in the happiest moods the time sped all too quickly and the sound of the "Home Sweet Home Waltz" came ere the assemblage was aware that time for departure had arrived. The management of the dance was under the careful vigilence of Messrs. F. J. Keim, Jr., and R. H. Edgar.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

ABSET.

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Abset, nee May Prosser, aged five weeks, died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Prosser, West Fifth street, last Saturday. The funeral took place last Tuesday.

ALLEN.

Mrs. Allen, aged 64, died at the residence of her son, Mr. G. S. Allen at this place last Friday, coming here only a few weeks ago to be with her children when sickness obliged her to disband her business at Wilcox, where she resided for many years, conducting a millinery establishment. Her remains were taken to Wilcox last Monday, the funeral taking place the same afternoon—funeral services being conducted by the Presbyterian clergyman.

FARRELL.

JAMES FARRELL, aged 67 years, died early this morning, at the family residence, East Fourth street. Deceased came to Emporium about 45 years ago and up to a few months ago he filled the position of section foreman at this place, when he was placed on retired list. Deceased was an honorable citizen reared a large family of good girls and boys. He assisted in the construction of the P. & E. R. R., also the W. N. Y. & P. R. R., and the Union Pacific.

His funeral takes place Sunday afternoon at two o'clock from St. Mark's Church. We hope to give an appropriate obituary in our next issue.

Box Social.

A box social will be held in the Sabbath school room of the Presbyterian Church, next Saturday evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all. Ladies will please prepare a box with lunch for two and kindly enclose your name.

For a clear head and a strong mind, DeWitt's Little Early Risers. the famous little liver pills. Sold by all druggists.

MR. AND MRS. RILEY WARNER,
Who were married Fifty-nine years ago to-day.

DEATH OF AN ESTIMABLE LADY.

Mrs. Riley Warner Passes Over the River.

MRS. RACHAEL L. DUNLAP-WARNER, wife of Ex-Sheriff Riley Warner, died Monday, Oct. 25th, 1909, at 3:00 p. m., after a long and painful illness, surrounded by her husband and children. Mrs. Warner was born at Meshoppen, Wyoming county, Pa., March 6th, 1830, therefore being 79 years, seven months and nineteen days of age; was married to Ex-Sheriff Warner, Oct. 28th, 1850, just 59 years ago to-day, the hour of her burial. To this union was born eight children—five having passed to that better world to await the mother. The living children, all present at the funeral, are Mrs. Lulu Cole, of Keokuk, Iowa; Mrs. Lizzie Hinkle and Mrs. Margaret Judd, of this place. In addition to the children, Mrs. Warner is survived by her husband, Ex-Sheriff Riley Warner, (hale and hearty at the ripe old age of 82), and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. M. B. Storm, Phil'a; Mrs. Ronea Storm, North Dakota; Henry Dunlap, Lynn, Susquehanna county, Pa, John W. Dunlap, Meshoppen, Pa., Warren Dunlap, Bear Creek, Luzerne county, Pa. The first named sister and the last named brother, accompanied by his wife, are in attendance at the funeral, which took place this afternoon from the family residence on Walnut street. The religious services were conducted by Rev. Lux, pastor of Presbyterian Church, the church choir furnishing the singing. The floral offerings and many manifestations of regard and sympathy on the part of the friends of the family were many and appropriate.

The following friends of the family serve as casket bearers: Thos. H. Norris, G. S. Allen, E. E. Forbes, Hon. I. K. Hockley, Chas. E. Crandell, H. H. Mullin.

Mr. Warner and his estimable wife came to Emporium Aug. 7th, 1867, residing here all these years, having always held the esteem and respect of our citizens. Their long residence in our midst has endeared the deceased to our citizens and all remember the cheerful, kind and hospitable disposi- of "Mother Warner." During the many years the writer and family delighted in dropping in to pass an evening—and that was very often—in company with this pleasant family, we always felt at home. Deceased was for many years landlady of the Warner house, that popular house being erected by her husband, and formed many warm friends by her kindness and charitableness to many poor unfortunates. Mrs. Warner was a good woman, a kind mother and a faithful wife—one af those substantial, frugal mothers that we read about. The world was better for her being in it and her family and husband can always point with pride and admiration to her spotless life. Peace to her soul.

The funeral as we go to press is very largely attended many being present from out of town.

In addition to those mentioned above, in attendance at the funeral, are the following: Mr. W. S. Warner, (nephew), Mrs. Chas. S. French, (niece) Austin; L. S. Hinkle and wife, Wilcox.

Good Old Age.

Hon. N. P. Minard, of Four Mile, called to see the PRESS last Saturday and get a receipt for another year. Judge Minard, who passed the 86th mile post May 5th, 1909, is remarkably well preserved and bids fair to live many years. Hope he may live to celebrate his 100 birthday.

Local news on every page.

Read, Republicans, What Governor Stuart Says.

Should any Republican think of voting against Judge Von Moschzisker, they should stop and reason first. Read what Governor Stuart said, recently to his Philadelphia friends:

"The state ticket is headed by a candidate whom you well know, and that position is justice of the supreme court.

"That gentleman has been nominated by the Republican party for the office of justice of the supreme court, and the name of the gentleman is Judge Von Moschzisker a resident of Philadelphia county, and a member of the Philadelphia bar, and he has filled the position as a member of one of our courts for the past seven years; a young man of undoubted ability and integrity, and a man in my mind, who will make one of the greatest jurists of this commonwealth. By reason of his position as a candidate for the surpreme court of Pennsylvania, he will not be here to-night."

Governor Stuart might have gone further and contrasted our candidate with that of the Democratic party, who is running all over the State holding political conflabs, contrary to all previous customs of either party.

The Blanket Ballot.

The attention of every voter is called to the big ballot to be used next Tuesday. If you desire to vote a straight ticket, place an X after the party name at the left of the ballot, as formerly. But you will be called on to vote for or against the amendments. If you desire to vote for all the amendments you will have to make a X after each section.

Voting a straight party ticket does not vote for or against the amendments.

Voting a split ticket does not vote for or against the amendments.

Voting on the amendmeuts does not vote for the candidates.

But, place an X after the word Republican, then mark an X after each amendment.

Construction Work Commenced.

A large force of Italians passed through Emporium on Saturday, enroute for Sterling Run to grade the Sterling Run R. R., for a distance of two or more miles, to the coal measures on Sterling Run. The coal will be shipped to the coke ovens near Emporium for coking—the product to be used at Emporium furnace. This vein, the Mt. Hope, is the best coal for coking purposes to be found in the state.

The Prize Banner.

The banner presented to the delegates of Cameron county at the State Sunday School Convention at Harrisburg, is on exhibition in the Theatorium window. There were only 24 of these banners awarded to the county delegations this year and we are all proud to know that our little county was one of the 24 to stand on the "Front Line."

Commencing Early.

The Mountaineer Hose Co., have commenced early arranging for their grand ball to be given at opera house, Thanksgiving Eve. The popular Germania Orchestra, of Lock Haven, has been engaged for the occasion. The tickets will be only $1.00.

Teachers' Institute.

The 43rd Annual Teacher's Institute of Cameron county convened in the Court House on Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The Institute was called to order by Miss Mattie M. Collins, County Superintendent, followed by devotional exercises conducted by the Rev. J. F. Anderson, pastor of the M. E. Church. Miss Collins made some timely remarks, after which Prof. Chas. A. Dobson was introduced as musical director and lead in several musical selections. Prof. W. A. Price, of Ashland, Ohio, was then introduced to the Institute and spoke on the subject of "Philosophy of American literature." His talk was very interesting and instructive. After some music and a short intermission, Prof. Smith Burnham, of the West Chester Normal School, was introduced and spoke on the subject, Literature and History in the lower grades and why. Prof. Burnham spoke of the teacher's power to fit the child to be a good citizen, to obtain the right kind of citizenship requires culture of the heart as well as the brain. His talk was interesting from start to finish. The Institute was then adjourned until 9:00 o'clock Tuesday morning.

TUESDAY, A. M.

Institute was called to order by Miss Collins, followed by devotional services led by the Rev. Paul J. Lux, pastor of Presbyterian church. Prof. W. A. Price took as his morning discourse "The Teachers." There was some good sound advice given to the teachers as well as an instructive talk. A music drill was then conducted by Prof. Dobson, followed by a short intermission. After being called to order the next speaker was Prof. Smith Burnham, who spoke on the subject "Literature and History in the lower Grades—How." After several musical numbers Institute stood adjourned until 1:30 p. m.

TUESDAY, P. M.

Institute opened by singing, under the direction of Prof. Dobson, followed by roll call. Prof. C.E. Plasterer, principal of Emporium High School was then introduced to the Institute and spoke on the subject "Common School English" Prof. Plasterer spoke very emphatically on the object and value of correct English. A piano solo was very effectively rendered by Miss Louise Welsh. Prof. W. A. Price next spoke on the subject "An hour with Eugene Fields". Prof. Price in well chosen and eloquent words, paid a beautiful tribute to Eugene Fields and cited many interesting stanzas which portrayed the character and traits of Fields.

Prof. R. Howard Edgar, principal of the East Ward school, rendered with pleasing effect a vocal solo entitled "When We're Together," in response to the applause Mr. Edgar sang a selection entitled "A Jolly Good Fellow." After a few minutes intermission, Miss Collins introduced to the assemblage, Dr. Dan McGurk, who made a short address.

Following a musical number, Prof. Burnham occupied the remainder of the session speaking on the subject "From the Brandywine to Valley Forge." Prof. Burnham gave a very interesting description of the movement of the armies of Howard and Washington during the Revolution.

WEDNESDAY, A. M.

Institute was called to order by the County Supt., followed by devotional services by Rev. J. L. Bogue, pastor of Baptist church. Music drill under Prof. Dobson The first speaker was Prof. Price, his subject, "Government" and said in part, "There are as many different kinds of government as there are boys and girls. The teachers should cultivate their manners and morals and keep themselves in a cheerful mood, etc. In governing the boy we should use tact and common sense rather than the rod." After a short intermission, Prof. Burnham took for his subject. The tools of the history teacher—The Book." The address was followed by music, after which Hon. R. B. Teitrick, Dep. State Supt. was introduced and after a few preliminary remarks spoke on "Laws of Teaching." "A fundamental law is that the teacher must know what he is teaching. The central power of the teachers art is the power of illustration. The teacher must be enthusiastic in order to teach effectively."

Death of Daniel S. Dailey.

Many of our readers will be pained to learn of the death of Daniel S. Dailey, aged 68, at his home in Driftwood, after suffering for a long time with Bright's disease. He passed to the great beyond on Monday morning. Deceased came to Cameron county at the close of the civil war, having served his country faithfully, and assisted in the building of the P. & E. R. R. He located at Driftwood and for 45 years was section foreman at that place. He leaves a wife and six grown children to mourn his death.

The funeral services were conducted from the Driftwood Catholic Church. yesterday morning, the attendance being very large, many attending from this section of the county.

We greatly regret the death of our old friend, whom we have known for many years, intimately, and greatly respected. His bereaved family have our most profound sympathy, as well as all who knew him.

Hunting Party.

A hunting party, consisting of Chas. G. Grubb, of Peters Carthridge Co., and Jos. Garland, salesman for said firm, of Pittsburg, also four other business men of same city, have rented a house near Beechwood and are enjoying themselves hugely. They have met with success, having already captured considerable game, but no bear yet. They hope to get a bear or two before going home. "Teddy" Blum and H. S. Lloyd visited them on Tueesday, being acquaintances of theirs.

Handsome Appointments.

A. A. McDonald has completed the improvements in his store and billiard room, now presenting a very neat and atttractive appearance—fresh paint, new paper and everything up-to-date. "Angus" is enterprising and would like to erect a brick block, if others would join him. Fred Williams was the artist, but "Uncle John" Quigley ably assited him in putting on the finishing touches.

Sun Cooking.

A German, Baron Tehernhausen, was the first sun cook. He began in 1687 to boil water, and in 1688 he had very good success in boiling eggs. Sir John Herschel and Buffon are other famous names associated with sun cooking. Sun cooking—roasting and boiling by sunlight instead of coal or gas—has been going on for three hundred years. There are sun stoves that roast a sirloin or boil a soup to perfection. They are only used, however, by scientists.

Malaria in Children.

Dr. Cardamitis says infancy less than a year old has a higher tendency to malaria than any other age. Malarial children's blood should be kept disinfected with quinine, as they are the main carriers of malaria. Mosquitoes catch it from malarial children before starting an epidemic of chills, fever and ague. He recommends chocolate quinine tablets, three grains a day, for children.

The Murderous Bluefish.

A five-pound bluefish passes eastward from Vineyard sound in the spring and weighs ten or 15 pounds in autumn. The bluefish is an unmitigated sea butcher and is able to whip any other species not larger than himself. He attacks menhaden with such ferocity as to pack them in windrows a foot deep on the coast.

Happiness Easily Found.

Happiness is not like a large and beautiful gem, so uncommon and rare that all search for it is vain, all efforts to obtain it hopeless; but it consists of a series of smaller and commoner gems, grouped and set together, forming a pleasing and graceful whole.—Samuel Smiles.

Spectacular Fire.

The most spectacular fire ever witnessed in the oil industry was at one of the Dos Bocas wells in Mexico. About 60,000 barrels of oil was burned up daily for nearly two months. The flames rose to heights of 800 to 1,400 feet.

Heartless Landlord.

"I used to walk the floor worrying about how I was going to pay my landlord," said Mr. Tufluck. "I hope you have quit all that?" replied the optimist. "I had to. The landlord said that if I didn't stop wearing out the floor he'd raise the rent."

FOR SHIP SUBSIDIES

PRESIDENT TAFT HAS PLACED HIMSELF ON RECORD.

Means That Rehabilitation of American Merchant Marine Will Be Again Forced Upon the Attention of Congress.

The president's declaration at Seattle that the country was ready for an experiment with ship subsidies as one method for the rehabilitation of the American merchant marine, and that it was his purpose to urge upon congress legislation in this direction, while not totally unexpected, is the first formal step which has been taken to commit the national administration to this policy. For months there have been signs, in the redoubled activity of the unofficial advocates of ship subsidies in the conduct of their propaganda of education, and in the trend of the consular reports, that it was the purpose of the government to back this method of reviving American shipping in the foreign trade. With this backing the fight in congress will have a very different aspect from the subsidy campaigns of 1898 and 1903, and the chances are thus immeasurably increased that the country will again make a serious attempt to solve a problem which has baffled American economists.

The logic of the protective system will be found to support the principle of government aid for shipping, although the contribution of the public toward the support of private enterprise is more direct and conspicuous when given in the form of subsidies than in the case of import duties, and there is undoubted weight in the argument that American shipbuilders and owners are alone in being denied support in their effort to compete with foreigners. And aside from the argument from logic, President Taft himself refers to the next strongest card of the ship subsidy advocates when he speaks of the practical difficulty in which the nation would find itself in the event of war without the mercantile marine from which to draw its seamen, it colliers and its supply ships. Congress has both refused to supply the requisite fleet of colliers for the navy and to face seriously the problem of the decline of the mercantile marine.

This much said, the case resolves itself into a balancing of evils. Shall the United States adopt an expedient of doubtful value to gain a result that in the nature of the thing, can have no certainty of permanence? Shall we pay many millions to the ship owners to the end that other millions now paid to foreign shipowners for the carriage of our foreign commerce shall also be paid to American shipowners? What would be the economic gain to the country of a system which increased the cost of marine transportation, and added another sort of class legislation to the law books? These are some of the questions which will be now debated with fresh interest and intensity, and will be coupled with the additional question, whether some means other than subsidies cannot be found for the resuscitation of American shipping in the foreign trade.

Free ships in the foreign trade, free shipbuilding materials, an extension of the present policy of liberal contracts for the carrying of the mails and discriminating duties in indirect trade have all been suggested, and all have been strongly supported. The point of immediate importance, at the beginning of the serious debate of the subsidy question, is whether some of these expedients would not accomplish the desired result without the evils which the foes of subsidies believe would inevitably attend the adoption of a bald subsidy program. The shipowner would doubtless prefer a direct grant of aid from the public treasury, but it is more than an open question, in the light of the experience of other countries, whether the method would in the end give the results that are so ardently and universally desired.

They Need No Protection.

The superintendent of a South Carolina cotton mill has made some interesting statements to a reporter for the Providence (R. I.) Journal. He says that the southern mills are earning large dividends—many of them from 25 to 40 per cent. a year. In most cases what is earned over ten per cent. is put into new buildings and improvements. That helps to explain why the number of spindles in the south has risen in ten years from 4,000,000 to 10,000,000 and why that section consumed more bales of cotton last year than New England and Canada.

The big dividends of the southern mills serve to explain the absence of enthusiasm among southern senators for the reduction of the duties in the cotton schedule and their perfunctory opposition to whatever increases were made. It is true that the increases do not affect the cheaper grades of goods to whose manufacture the south devotes itself almost exclusively, but the owners of the southern mills are looking forward to the time when they will begin to rival New England in the production of finer goods.

One can understand why the appeal of Mr Bryan and of the Saratoga conference to the Democrats to "rally once again, boys, shouting the battle cry" of "tariff for revenue only" has no response from those interested in the great southern cotton manufacturing industry. They call themselves Democrats, but they are for a high protective tariff and the preservation of their 25 or 40 per cent. dividends.

EXPERT OPINION ON TARIFF

Country Has Right to Look Forward to Good Work from the Commission.

Congress took alarm at the idea of a tariff commission and consented only to the appointment of a board that should secure information to assist the president in the discharge of the duties imposed upon him by the maximum and minimum section of the new tariff bill and the officers of the government in the administration of the customs laws. The executive might need help in putting the law into effect, but an omniscient legislature required no help whatever in framing the laws of the future.

The board which has now been chosen consists of three members who have made a special study of the tariff from different points of view. Henry C. Emery, the chairman, is professor of political economy at Yale and a writer of note on economical questions. James B. Reynolds has served on commissions for the investigation of foreign tariffs, is assistant secretary of the treasury and is considered a tariff expert. Alvin H. Sanders, editor and publisher of the Breeders' Gazette, is chairman of the American Reciprocal Tariff league, has worked zealously for the extension of our markets, is in close touch with the producers of the west and understands thoroughly the industrial conditions and needs of this part of the country.

The records of these men indicate their fitness for such an investigation as may be required of them. No one can doubt that the appointments were wisely made, and it is very possible that the information which the board secures may have an effect upon congress in spite of the exhibitions that have been given of congressional stubbornness. At one time it was intimated that the president anticipated this larger influence from the work of the board, whose duties, even after the legislative restrictions, are hardly so sharply defined as to prevent full reports on various kinds of information. Facts properly set forth, an aroused public sentiment, an administration favorable to a comprehensive commission plan, may result in a closer approach to scientific tariff-making and let us hope that they will.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Bryan and Bailey.

Mr. William J. Bryan is making speeches in Texas in advocacy of the policy on which he wishes the disunited Democracy to unite—a tariff for revenue only, with free raw materials. Senator Bailey is making speeches in support of a tariff for revenue only with low duties on raw materials. He says that was the Democratic doctrine in 1846, when Polk was president. Mr. Bryan contends that President Cleveland, who was for free raw materials, represented the modern convictions of the party.

The two statesmen have been firing at each other at long range. Somebody proposed that they should have a joint debate and thresh out the question. It is one in which the Texans are interested. There are many of them who, while denying vigorously that they are protectionists, approve of stiff duties on wool and lumber, and who disliked the removal of the duty on hides.

But Mr. Bryan, who likes to be the only star in the sky, and who, perhaps, is unwilling to meet at close quarters so strong a debater as Senator Bailey, does not take kindly to the suggestion. He says he will not consider a joint meeting unless Senator Bailey shall make a personal request for it. He thinks it would tend to turn attention from his tentative platform to individuals—to Bailey as well as Bryan. The senator says that, in view of Mr. Bryan's opinion that a joint debate would affect the national party, he is averse to forcing it. How the Democratic party, which is groping blindly for an issue acceptable to the great mass of its members, can be harmed by a joint debate between two of its leaders is not apparent. It seems rather as if it would tend to clear up the situation and enable the Democrats to know what they ought to believe and preach as to the tariff question. At present they are badly mixed, in Texas as well as the rest of the union.

Must Hear from the People.

It is understod that the plans of the monetary commission are still in a formative stage. Thus far the work of the commission has been chiefly that of investigation. The experience of every important commercial country, and the results of that experience in existing financial systems have been studied by experts, whose reports, which will form the basis of the commission's action, will stand as classics in the study of national finance. But however perfect in its science the plan evolved may be, it will require, not only for enactment, but for its successful application, the co-operation of the people. To that end the members of the monetary commission, in their campaign of education, must sit as learners as well as instructors. And in adopting this policy of public discussion the commission is exhibiting a characteristic of successful leadership which, while directing, takes counsel directly or indirectly of its forces and enlists, rather than commands, respect and obedience.

President and Party.

Taft's position is impregnable as a choice of tactics in party leadership. The party voters will be pleased with the president's exposition of party duties. They will sustain the party majority and keep it in power.—Omaha Bee.

A colored man from Georgia had lived in Washington but a few years when he was arrested for some slight violation of the city ordinances. Upon hearing that the negro was in jail, the secretary of the colored Y. M. C. A. secured the services of a minister to go with him and sign the prisoner's bail bond. They reached the jail shortly before noon, and told the negro the object of their visit. In response to the proffered kindness he said:

"Mistah Johnsing, I sho is glad you-all is gwine to git me out, but I wants you-all to fix it so I can't git out till late dis evenin'."

Of course the two Samaritans were somewhat taken aback by this unusual request. But a moment later they lost their breath when, in answer to the secretary's question, the Georgia negro replied in a whisper:

VOYAGE of L'ABBE CHAPPE to CALIFORNIA to OBSERVE the TRANSIT of VENUS IN 1769

BY PAULY

[Editor's Note.—This account of a seventeenth century scientific expedition was published in the Auburn (Ill.) Citizen, March 18, 1886, as an item of local interest, there living at that place at that time many descendants of Pauly, the engineer—the Poleys, Parkses, Fosters, and other families being represented in the list. The original manuscript in French was in the possession of John Pauley of Kansas, who was at the time of the publication visiting his Illinois kinsmen.

This account is particularly interesting at this time, as it describes the conditions prevailing on the coast of California, in 1769, an event fittingly celebrated by the Golden Gate City.

The malady described by Pauly, which decimated the ranks of the French expedition, occurred at the same time as several other writers mention a very severe prevalence of scurvy in California, and was probably the same.]

THE observation of the transit of Venus on the 3d of June, 1796, was an object of interest to all the learned. The Royal Academy of Sciences proposed to the king, Louis XV., to make the necessary outlay to send to California for this purpose. The late M. L'Abbe Chappe undertook this voyage with a courage worthy of his zeal for the progress of science. I was selected to accompany him and we set sail for Mexico in the month of September, 1768.

After a perilous voyage of about 3,000 leagues, we arrived in Mexico on Easter day, 1769. Time was passing; we stopped but eight days to refresh ourselves. The viceroy procured us mules and provisions, and we undertook to perform by land a part of the remainder of our travels, which was about 300 leagues. Amid lofty mountains, dreadful precipices and arid deserts, we encountered new dangers every day. We failed from fear a thousand times. We were also oppressed by the excessive heat, which left us hardly strength enough to drag ourselves. A thousand insects of every species gave us no rest by day or night, and we had constantly to be on our guard against the very ferocious beasts with which the country is covered. Moreover, we lacked the necessaries of life, for the provisions that we got in Mexico had been spoiled by the heat. We were obliged to live on wild cattle and whatever fruits we could find here and there. We made our halts near some river or spring, that we might slake the burning thirst with which we were constantly consumed; to find one it was often necessary to march a whole day's journey.

Arrived in the evening in some valley, or on the side of some hill, we would endeavor to take upon the ground (et a la belle etoille), the repose which our cruel fatigue rendered so necessary. When scarcely asleep we were often aroused by a storm, and then by the impetuous torrents that came down upon us from the heights of the mountains. Many a dark night we had to save ourselves and our equipage, fearful at every step of tumbling down some of the precipices.

After running a thousand risks we arrived at last at the port of San Blas, on the Pacific ocean; thence we embarked for California on a brigantine which the viceroy of Mexico had had prepared. The Pacific ocean, although very tranquil, is not the less dangerous on account of the (vigies) with which it is filled.

The great calm which prevailed at that time caused us to despair of arriving in time to accomplish the object of our voyage. After six weeks' sailing, during which we made but 150 leagues, on the greatest breadth of the sea, the shortness of the time caused us to risk a hazardous exploit.

The part of California near which we found ourselves was the port of San Jose—so dangerous that no one had ever landed there. The access to it is guarded by the incessant waves that break impetuously against the rocks.

The Spanish astronomers who were of our company wished to wait for a favorable wind to land at Cape St. Lucas, which was distant but ten leagues. The landing there is indeed less dangerous, but we did not follow their advice because we were pressed to arrive at the place of our destination; we resolved to attempt to disembark at the first land we should discover.

While these gentlemen were yet deliberating, four Indian sailors and myself let down the long boat; we took with us half of the instruments. I agreed with the Abbe Chappe that if we perished he might find other means to land elsewhere with the rest, which would be sufficient for making his observations. I embarked then in the long boat with my four sailors, steering directly for the coast; the nearer we approached it the more we were sensible of the difficulty of landing.

We were constantly thrown back by the accumulated waves, and our boat threatened all the while to ship water. When on the point of losing courage, one of the sailors discovered, at a distance, the mouth of an unknown river. This discovery animated us; we reached the coast by this mouth but with great difficulty. I sent back the long boat for the Abbe Chappe and the Spanish astronomers, who arrived safely enough.

Arrived on the peninsula the twenty-first of May, 1769, 13 days before the epoch of the transit of Venus. We found no (azile a pouvoir nous mettre a labir), the inclemency of the weather.

The savages that repaired to us said that a contagion was prevailing in this country which ravaged it completely. The interpreter who translated this added that they said that in order to withdraw ourselves from the influence of this terrible malady, it was necessary to remove some hundred or more leagues farther to the north.

The means of undertaking this new journey, broken down with fatigue as we were; we had neither horses nor carriers to transport our baggage; it was impossible to march on foot, and we shrank from a journey through a desert. All these reasons decided us to occupy ourselves with no business but that which had brought us.

We labored to construct an observatory, which was ready the twenty-eighth day of May, six days before the epoch when we would have need of it.

We made our observations on the third of June, with the greatest exactness.

The contagion made new progress every day; a general sorrow reigned in all this part of California; we were not long without participating in it in a distressing manner. This dreadful malady came upon us six or seven days after the observation. We were wholly without succor; we could not be useful to one another, because we were attacked almost all at once.

The little medicine that we had brought from France was useless, from want of knowing how to apply it.

Nevertheless, the abbe, all sick as he was, continued his observations all the time. After observing an eclipse of the moon, he at last yielded to his faintness, the delirium of his disease left him but little time to examine himself; he died the first of August, 1769. We were all dying (I and the companions of our voyage), when I had the sorrow to close his eyelids.

Our situation and our want of strength induced us in this case to bury him without much ceremony. I devoted some moments to regret for the loss I had suffered, and in the height of a disease from which I did not expect to recover, I took the precaution to collect all the papers relating to the object of the voyage. I placed them in a casket with an address to the viceroy of Mexico. I earnestly begged some Indian chiefs who were about me to make this casket safe in case we should all die, and to transmit it to the vessel which ought to arrive in the month of September to take us. My intention in this was to secure to my country this valuable depot. I remained in my condition of sickness, pain and wretchedness until the twenty-ninth of September.

At last the captain of the vessel arrived; he had landed at the island of Ceralvo, which is situated some 30 leagues from San Jose. My joy was so much the greater in seeing him that he pressed me to quit the fearful place where M. L'Abbe Chappe and all the rest had died. We were carried to Ceralvo. I forgot to say that this cruel contagion had taken from us the chaplain and nearly all the persons that formed our little company.

Although sick and oppressed with grief, I was compelled to undertake the perilous route which I had followed in coming, sometimes upon mules, sometimes upon the backs of the Indians, when it was necessary to cross the streams. With all this trouble, I reached Mexico the twenty-third day of November, 1769.

There I was received by monsieur the marquis of Croix, the viceroy of that country, with a compassion worthy of that good patriot. He had had the kindness to send to meet me a carriage and his physician. Arrived at the capital of Mexico, and having paid my respects to the viceroy I was lodged by his orders at the expense of the city.

When I left Mexico the marquis de Croix recommended me cordially to the commander of the Spanish fleet, in which I embarked. We landed at Cadiz the twenty-first of July, 1770. The court was at the Escurial. I had myself taken thither, and presented myself to the marquis d'Ossun, then French ambassador in Spain. He received me with marks of kindness and consideration, and gave orders to show me whatever they have to show strangers in this royal house.

He caused me to dispatch in advance of the party, the strictest orders through the minister of customs, that at no pass on my route must be searched either myself or the chests in which were the observations which I bore.

I did not arrive in Paris till the fifth of the following December. I sent to the Academy the observations that we made in California. This society expressed the greatest satisfaction with my zeal and my services. They presented me to the king, and to all his ministers. They solicited for me a recommendation of my labors. His majesty, Louis XV. granted me a small pension of 800f.

The government is too equitable to leave me in want in the flower of my age, afflicted with the evils which I have incurred for the service, and indispensably obliged to have a servant to lead me. I hope, then, from his justice and from his goodness, that he will grant me an increase of the pension sufficient to enable me to accomplish with decency the rest of my public career.

SIX DEAD; SIX INJURED

OPEN SWITCH CAUSES A FATAL WRECK ON RAILROAD.

Pennsylvania Passenger and a Freight Train Collide at Collinsville, O.—Engines Demolished.

Hamilton, O.—Six persons are dead and six injured as the result of a collission between a Pennsylvania passenger and a freight train on an open switch at Collinsville, O. The passenger train, southbound on the Chicago and Cincinnati division of the road, was booming through the village at about 60 miles an hour. The freight train had taken the siding to let it pass.

Two blocks west of the station the rapidly running train struck the open switch and ran onto the siding. A terrific collision resulted, despite the fact that Engineer Elmer Brown of the express train threw on the air brakes at once. His act doubtless saved the passengers, none of whom was killed.

The collision wrecked both engines, destroyed many coal cars, and piled up the mail, express and baggage cars. The mail clerks who lost their lives were buried under the wreckage of their car. The smoker and coach were prevented from turning over by the fact that they leaned against Shollenbarger's grain elevator, adjoining the siding. All the passengers injured were in the smoker, and none is seriously hurt.

A northbound freight had taken the siding to allow a passenger train to pass an hour before the wreck. It is said that when this freight left the siding some one failed to close the switch. It developed that Station Agent Wright had been accustomed to close the switch, but Edward Johnson of Seven Mile, O., had taken his place temporarily and knew little of his duties.

Villagers and passengers came to the aid of the injured and put out a fire that started in the wreckage. They also got the injured and the dead from under the wreckage before the wrecking crew from Richmond, Ind., arrived.

DEATH CONQUERS M'GARREN

Brooklyn Democratic Leader Rose from Cooper's Apprentice to Be a Power in State Politics.

New York City.—Patrick H. McCarren, state senator and Democratic leader of Brooklyn, died at St. Catherine's hospital, Brooklyn, never having completely rallied from the effects of an operation for appendicitis which was performed on October 13. Senator McCarren remained fully conscious all day and seemed to realize that he was soon to die. In fact, he has held the belief for months that he had not long to live, and said so to the physicians in consultation over him.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I know what you have come here for. There is no need for a consultation. I knew I was dying the day I walked into this hospital. I have made a study of my own case, and I find that my trouble is an old heart and an old stomach."

Patrick Henry McCarren, by trade a cooper, by profession a lawyer, and by vocation a politician, was one of the most picturesque figures in the political history of Greater New York. No leader was ever more roundly condemned, yet at the close of the 61 years of his life he probably was the most strongly entrenched leader in New York state, and had even wielded some influence in national politics. Born in East Cambridge, Mass., he settled in Brooklyn when he was 8 years old and was graduated from the public schools. He was apprenticed to a cooper when 16, but, having mastered his trade, heard the call to something more intellectual. He took up the law, and from the law went into politics.

WEEKLY BULLETIN OF TRADE

Every Report Ranges from Moderate Improvement to Extraordinary Buoyancy in the Country.

New York City.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: "Overshadowing all other developments of the week is the advance in the Bank of England rate of discount to 5 per cent. As the advance to 6 per cent about three years ago was, as it were, the raising of storm signals, so the present advance is, as is said by Sir Felix Schuster, a sign of trade revival.

"In the United States every report of the week ranges from moderate improvement to extraordinary buoyancy. The advices from the leading cities are uniformly favorable, with especially brilliant reports from the western centers. As against these accumulated, and still accumulating, evidences of trade expansion, the two factors that speak for conservatism are the advancing prices and the danger that speculation may make such demands on the money market as prematurely to consume the free capital of the world required to finance a new era of prosperity."

Senator Gallinger's Son Drops Dead.

New York City.—William Gallinger, eldest son of United States Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, fell dead in a bedroom in the apartment of his cousin, Mrs. A. E. Johnstone, of heart disease.

Shortage in Coal Cars.

Baltimore, Md. — The threatened shortage of coal cars in the mining regions of Maryland and West Virginia is here and the railroads seem powerless to relieve the situation, according to leaders in the coal trade.

ANOTHER WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Gardiner, Maine.—"I have been a great sufferer from organic troubles and a severe female weakness. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but I could not bear to think of it. I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash—and was entirely cured after three months' use of them."—Mrs. S. A. WILLIAMS, R. F. D. No. 14, Box 39, Gardiner, Me.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made exclusively from roots and herbs, a fair trial.

This famous medicine for women has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and renewer of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It cures female ills, and creates radiant, buoyant female health. If you are ill, for your own sake as well as those you love, give it a trial.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

IT IS.

She—John Henry! I wonder how you can sit there and look me in the face.

He—So do I, my love; but it's surprising what a recklessly brave man can do!

The Soft Answer.

At a dinner in Bar Harbor a Boston woman praised the wit of the late Edward Everett Hale.

"Walking on the outskirts of Boston one day," she said, "he and I inadvertently entered a field that had a 'No Trespassing' sign nailed to a tree.

"Soon a farmer appeared.

"'Trespassers in this field are prosecuted,' he said in a grim tone.

"Dr. Hale smiled blandly.

"'But we are not trespassers, my good man,' he said.

"'What are you then?' asked the amazed farmer.

"'We're Unitarians,' said Dr. Hale."—Washington Star.

Joke Medicine.

He is a very practical, serious-minded man of business. The other day he met a friend, and related to him an alleged joke, and at its conclusion laughed long and heartily.

The friend looked awkward for a moment, and then said:

"You'll have to excuse me, old man, but I don't see the point."

"Why, to tell you the truth, I don't just see the point myself. But I've made it a rule to laugh at all jokes; I think it's good for the health."

How She Knew.

The cartoonist's wife was talking to a friend.

"I just know Fred didn't want to work at the office last night," she said.

"Why, how do you know?" was asked.

"Because in his sleep he said: 'Well, I'll stay, but I don't want to draw.'"—Lippincott's Magazine.

A BANKER'S NERVE

Broken by Coffee and Restored by Postum.

A banker needs perfect control of the nerves, and a clear, quick, accurate brain. A prominent banker of Chattanooga tells how he keeps himself in condition:

"Up to 17 years of age I was not allowed to drink coffee, but as soon as I got out in the world I began to use it and grew very fond of it. For some years I noticed no bad effects from its use, but in time it began to affect me unfavorably. My hands trembled, the muscles of my face twitched, my mental processes seemed slow and in other ways my system got out of order. These conditions grew so bad at last that I had to give up coffee altogether.

"My attention having been drawn to Postum, I began its use on leaving off the coffee, and it gives me pleasure to testify to its value. I find it a delicious beverage; like it just as well as I did coffee, and during the years that I have used Postum I have been free from the distressing symptoms that accompanied the use of coffee. The nervousness has entirely disappeared, and I am as steady of hand as a boy of 25, though I am more than 92 years old. I owe all this to Postum." "There's a Reason." Where Everyone Helps.

Whenever the people of Pennsylvania go to the polls in anything like their full numbers, they roll up a Republican majority that is the wonder and admiration of the Republicans of the rest of the country. These majorities have put the state at the head of the Republican column and made it the leader of Republican policy and sentiment.

There never has been a time when a large and overwhelming Republican majority from Pennsylvania was more needed than it is this year. It is not merely a question of electing the Republican candidates for state offices; it is the more important one of giving support to the real principles and purposes of the party.

Those principles and purposes found their truest advocate and representatives in the Senators and Republicans members of Congress from Pennsylvania during the recent extra session struggle over tariff revision. They won their fight against both Democrats and Middle West Republicans, who had broken away from the safe anchorage of the party on the protection question, and they should be overwhelmingly endorsed.

Can there be any doubt about where Pennsylvania stands?

Certainly not. What is needed however, is such a demonstration of its position as can be best given by an overwhelming Republican majority at the coming election. Every Republican should contribute to this, for the result will have unusual significance.

Don't Experiment

You Will Make no Mistake if You Follow This Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys.

If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are all symptoms of kidney trouble, and you should seek a remedy which is known to cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has cured many stubborn cases in this vicinity.

Can Emporium residents demand further proof than that contained in the following testimonial:

Mrs. C. E. Decker, 46 S. St. Marys St., St. Marys, Pa., says: "For two years I suffered from kidney complaint. There were severe pains through my back and sides, headaches were frequent and my ankles swelled. I often became so dizzy that I thought I would fall and though specialists treated me, no relief followed. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly recommended that I procured a box and soon noticed a great change. It was only a short time before I received a complete cure and I have not had the slighest symptom of kidney complaint since. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as a reliable kidney remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Painting and Paper Hanging.

For Constipation

A Medicine That Does Not Cost Anything Unless it Gives Satisfactory Relief.

If you suffer from constipation in any form whatever, acute or chronic, we will guarantee to supply you medicine that we honestly believe will effect permanent relief if taken with regularity and according to directions for a reasonable length of time. Should the medicine fail to benefit you to your entire satisfaction we promise that it shall cost you nothing.

No other remedy can be compared with Rexall Orderlies for the easy, pleasant and successful treatment of constipation. The active medicinal ingredient of this remedy, which is colorless, tasteless and odorless, is an entirely new discovery. Combined with other valuable ingredients, it forms a preparation which is incomparable as a perfect bowel regulator, intestinal invigorator and strengthener. Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy, and are notable for their gentle and agreeable action. They do not cause griping or any disagreeable effect or inconvenience, and may be taken at any time, day or night.

We particularly recommend Rexall Orderlies for children and for delicate or aged persons, because they do not contain anything injurious. Unlike other preparations, they do not create a habit, but instead they overcome the habits acquired through the use of ordinary laxatives, cathartics, and harsh physic, and remove the causes of constipation of irregular bowel action that are not of surgical variety.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. We know of nothing that will do you so much good. They are prepared in tablet form in two sizes, 36 tablets 25 cents, and 12 tablets 10 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Emporium only at our store—The Rexall Store. The Emporium Drug Co.

A DOCTOR'S PRESCRIPTION FOR PIMPLES

To remove Pimples, Blackheads, Blotches, and all forms of skin eruptions, is, according to a well known physician, a very easy matter; he says that many are afflicted with some one of the above ailments, and are subject to a great deal of embarrassment on account of the unsightly appearance which they present, and recommends the following simple, harmless and inexpensive treatment. Go to your druggist and get this prescription filled: Clearola one-half ounce, Ether one ounce, Alcohol seven ounces, mix, shake well and apply to the parts affected night and morning, allowing it to remain on the skin at least ten minutes, then wipe off the powder from the skin. Use a soft cloth or sponge in applying the mixture and in from ten days to two weeks your face will be smooth and clear as a marriage bell. Get the Pure Clearola, which is only put up in one-half ounce packages. Ask to see it.

F. G. Fritz, Oneonta, N. Y., writes: "My little girl was greatly benefitted by taking Foley's Orino Laxative and I think it is the best remedy for constipation and liver trouble." Foley's Orino Laxative is mild, pleasant and effective and cures habitual constipation. Sold by all druggists.

Kodol is for Dyspepsia, Indigestion sour stomach, or for any stomach trouble. Kodol is very pleasant to take and it acts promptly. It digests all the food you eat, for it is composed of the very same digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach. It is guaranteed to relieve you and is sold here by all druggists.

ANDREWS SOUNDS NOTE OF WARNING

Republicans Told of Danger of Over-Confidence.

DEMOCRATS ON STILL HUNT

Seeking Complimentary Votes For Nominee For Supreme Bench and Banking Upon a Small Poll by Majority Party.

[Special Correspondence.]

Philadelphia, Oct. 26.

Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the Republican state committee, today sounded a note of warning to the Republicans of Pennsylvania.

He made it clear that he expects every Republican voter in this state to do his duty on Nov. 2.

With election day only about one week off the state chairman insists that there must be a lining up of the Republican forces in every county if the Republican ticket is to be elected, as it ought to be, by an overwhelming majority. Since early in September Chairman Andrews, from the headquarters of the Republican state committee in this city, has been directing an aggressive campaign. Not that the Republican ticket is in danger; it is not. But many Republicans of Pennsylvania frequently take Republican success for granted and make no especial effort to go to the polls.

It was this danger of over-confidence that Colonel Andrews had in mind today.

"Pennsylvania is the banner Republican state; we have the votes, and to poll the right kind of majority it is only necessary for the voters to cast their ballots," said the chairman. "Many Republicans in an off-year like this, when there is no particular excitement, proceed upon the theory that the rest of the party will vote and thus insure the election of the ticket. Now it is an axiom of warfare that an army must constantly be on guard. I want to warn the Republicans of this state against the 'last card' in politics. They should see that Democratic effort does not threaten Republican success.

"The Republican party has a splendid ticket. A better one has never been offered the people of Pennsylvania. A. E. Sisson and J. A. Stober are able and experienced men; they have records that commend them to the people, and they are public spirited citizens. They will contribute their full share to a continuance of good government in this commonwealth.

The Judicial Canvass.

"Judge Robert von Moschzisker will make a great supreme court justice. He has a splendid record as a common pleas pudge; he is known to the lawyers of the state as one of the ablest members of the Pennsylvania bar, and he has the confidence of all of the people. Not a syllable has been uttered against him since his nomination. His qualifications for the supreme bench are conceded by everybody. He ought to be elected by a tremendous majority. His Democratic opponent, Mr. Munson, is presenting this state with a spectacle it has never before witnessed. He is the only candidate for a high judicial office, who, in his eagerness for election, has so far overlooked the proprieties as to make a personal and compromising campaign for votes. He is now on a campaign tour, meeting the voters and making what are nothing more nor less than ordinary stump speeches. In Williamsport he maintains a large literary bureau, which has sent out thousands of documents and letters, in which he asks the voters to support him as a non-partisan candidate. He has adopted the endless chain system of letter writing and by this means hopes to reach every voter in the state.

"The old-fashioned idea that judicial office should seek the man and not the man seek the office manifestly has no place in the Democratic candidate's plan of politics. I do not believe many Republicans will entertain for a moment the proposition that they vote for a Democratic candidate for the supreme court.

"Mr. Munson's conduct in the campaign illustrates his conception of the dignity of the highest judicial tribunal in this commonwealth. Judge von Moschzisker has taken no part whatever in the campaign. He has asked no one to vote for him. He will take his seat on the supreme bench without having violated its sacred traditions.

National and State Issues.

"As I have repeatedly said, the elections in Pennsylvania this year are of national importance. A failure of the Republicans of the Keystone State to score a handsome majority would be accepted by the low tariff revisionists of the middle west as evidence that our people are not particularly interested in the protective system.

"A reduced majority will furnish an impetus to agitation for a lowering of the tariff rates. Pennsylvania is satisfied with the new tariff law because it is bringing prosperity. It should be the first state to record its indorsement of that legislation.

"There is another and very sound reason why the Republicans of the Keystone State should poll an unprecedented off-year majority at the coming election. Next year we must elect Governor Stuart's successor and other state officials, a new legislature that will elect Senator Oliver's successor, and a congressional delegation. A reduced majority in November would not only be a backward step; it would encourage the Democracy and inspire it with hope of success in 1910.

"The Republican party in Pennsylvania has never been in better condition than it is today. But, as I have said, it is necessary that every Republican do his duty on Nov. 2."

$200.00.

There are 1600 voters in Cameron county and if one-half of them will give us 25 cents a piece we will have the $200.00 to carry on the work of organizing and bettering the Sunday Schools of all the Churchs in our county. Romanist, Methodist, Jew or Gentile, regardless of creed or denomination.

As there will not be any money spent on the election this fall we can afford to give something to strengthen our Sunday Schools.

Every district is what the people make it. We placed Cameron county on list of Front Line Counties of the organized Sunday Schools of Pennsylvania this year, and we should not only work to keep on the Front Line, but try for first place next year.

Please take your money to your respective churches next Sunday, or send it to Mrs. John E. Smith, Treasurer, Sterling Run, Pa., or to the undersigned.

Let every one give or send 10 cents or $10.00 as he feels the work deserves.

Respectfully,
JOSIAH HOWARD,
President Cameron County Sunday School Association.

Nothelse is as safe and certain in results. Sold by all druggists.

DeWitt's Carbolized Witch Hazel Salve is unequalled for anything where salve is needed, but is especially good for piles. Sold by all druggists.

Foley's Honey and Tar clears the air passages, stops the irritation in the throat, soothes the inflamed membranes, and the most obstinate cough disappears. Sore and inflamed lungs are healed and strengthened, and the cold is expelled from the system. Refuse any but the genuine in the yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

If people with symptoms of kidney or bladder trouble would realize theie danger they would without loss of time commence taking Foley's Kidney Remedy. This great remedy stops the pain and the irregularities, strengthens and builds up these organs and there is no danger of Bright's disease or other serious disorder. Do not disregard the early symptons. Sold by all druggists.

SYNOPSIS.

The story opens with the shipwreck of the steamer on which Miss Genevieve Leslie, an American heiress, Lord Winthrope, an Englishman, and Tom Blake, a brusque American, were passengers. The three were tossed upon an uninhabited island and were the only ones not drowned. Blake recovered from a drunken stupor. Blake, shunned on the boat, because of his roughness, became a hero as preserver of the helpless pair. The Englishman was suing for the hand of Miss Leslie. Blake started to swim back to the ship to recover what was left. Blake returned safely. Winthrope wasted his last match on a cigarette, for which he was scored by Blake. Their first meal was a dead fish. The trio started a ten mile hike for higher land. Thirst attacked them. Blake was compelled to carry Miss Leslie on account of weariness. He taunted Winthrope. They entered the jungle. That night was passed roosting high in a tree. The next morning they descended to the open again. All three constructed hats to shield themselves from the sun. They then feasted on cocoanuts, the only procurable food. Miss Leslie showed a liking for Blake, but detested his roughness. Led by Blake they established a home in some cliffs. Blake found a fresh water spring. Miss Leslie faced an unpleasant situation.

Crept Back Down the Trail.

"They'll be dry in a day or two. Say, Winthrope, you might fetch some of those stones—size of a ball. I used to be a fancy pitcher when I was a kid, and we might scare up a rabbit or something."

"I play cricket myself. But these stones—"

"Better'n a gun, when you haven't got the gun. Come on. We'll go in a bunch, after all, in case I need stones."

With due consideration for Winthrope's ankle—not for Winthrope—Blake set so slow a pace that the half-mile's walk consumed over half an hour. But his smouldering irritation was soon quenched when they drew near the green thicket at the foot of the cleft. In the almost deathlike stillness of mid-afternoon, the sound of trickling water came to their ears, clear and musical.

"A spring!" shouted Blake. "I guessed right Look at those green plants and grass; there's the channel where it runs out in the sand and dries up."

The others followed him eagerly as he pushed in among the trees. They saw no running water, for the tiny rill that trickled down the ledges was matted over with vines. But at the foot of the slope lay a pool, some ten yards across, and overshadowed by the surrounding trees. There was no underbrush, and the ground was trampled bare as a floor.

"By Jove," said Winthrope; "see the tracks! There must have been a drove of sheep about."

"Deer, you mean," replied Blake, bending to examine the deeper prints at the edge of the pool. "These ain't sheep tracks. A lot of them are larger."

"Could you not uncover the brook?" asked Miss Leslie. "If animals have been drinking here, one would prefer cleaner water."

"Sure," assented Blake. "If you're game for a climb, and can wait a few minutes, we'll get it out of the spring itself. We've got to go up anyway, to get at our poultry yard!"

"Here's a place that looks like a path," called Winthrope, who had circled about the edge of the pool to the farther side.

Blake ran around beside him and stared at the tunnel-like passage which wound up the limestone ledges beneath the overarching thickets.

"Odd place, is it not?" observed Winthrope. "Looks like a fox run, only larger, you know."

"Too low for deer, though—and their hoofs would have cut up the moss and ferns more. Let's get a close look."

As he spoke, Blake stooped and climbed a few yards up the trail to an overhanging ledge, four or five feet high. Where the trail ran up over this break in the slope the stone was bare of all vegetation. Blake laid his club on the top of the ledge, and was about to vault after it, when, directly beneath his nose, he saw the print of a great catlike paw, outlined in dried mud. At the same instant a deep growl came rumbling down the "fox run." Without waiting for a second warning, Blake drew his club to him, and crept back down the trail. His stealthy movements and furtive backward glances filled his companions with vague terror. He himself was hardly less alarmed.

"Get out of the trees—into the open!" he exclaimed in a hoarse whisper, and as they crept away, white with dread of the unknown danger, he followed at their heels, looking backward, his club raised in readiness to strike.

Once clear of the trees, Winthrope caught Miss Leslie by the hand and broke into a run. In their terror they paid no heed to Blake's command to stop. They had darted off so unexpectedly that he did not overtake them short of 100 yards.

"Hold on!" he said, gripping Winthrope roughly by the shoulder. "It's safe enough here, and you'll knock out that blamed ankle."

"What is it? What did you see?" gasped Miss Leslie.

"Footprint," mumbled Blake, ashamed of his fright.

"A lion's?" cried Winthrope.

"Not so large—'bout the size of a puma's Must be a leopard's den up there. I heard a growl, and thought it about time to clear out."

"By Jove, we'd better withdraw around the point!"

"Withdraw your aunty! There's no leopard going to tackle us out here in open ground this time of day. The sneaking tomcat! If only I had a match, I'd show him how we smoke rat holes."

"Mr. Winthrope spoke of rubbing sticks to make fire," suggested Miss Leslie.

"Make sweat, you mean. But we may as well try it now, if we're going to at all. The sun's hot enough to fry eggs. We'll go back to a shady place and pick up sticks on the way."

Though there was shade under the cliff within some 600 feet, they had to go some distance to the nearest dry wood—a dead thornbush. Here they gathered a quantity of branches, even Miss Leslie volunteering to carry a load.

All was thrown down in a heap near the cliff, and Blake squatted beside it, penknife in hand. Having selected the dryest of the larger sticks, he bored a hole in one side and dropped in a pinch of powdered bark. Laying the stick in the full glare of the sun, he thrust a twig into the hole and began to twirl it between his palms. This movement he kept up for several minutes; but whether he was unable to twirl the twig fast enough or whether the right kind of wood or tinder was lacking all his efforts failed to produce a spark.

Unwilling to accept the failure, Winthrope insisted upon trying in turn, and pride held him to the task until he was drenched with sweat. The result was the same.

"Told you so," jeered Blake from where he lay in the shade. "We'd stand more chance cracking stones together."

"But what shall we do now?" asked Miss Leslie. "I am becoming very tired of cocoanuts, and there seems to be nothing else around here. Indeed, I think this is all such a waste of time. If we had walked straight along the shore this morning we might have reached a town."

"We might, Miss Jenny, and then, again, we mightn't. I happened to overhaul the captain's chart—Quilimane, Mozambique—that's all for hundreds of miles. Towns on this coast are about as thick as hen's-teeth."

"How about native villages?" demanded Winthrope.

"Oh, yes; maybe I'm fool enough to go into a wild nigger town without a gun. Maybe I didn't talk with fellows down on the Rand."

"But what shall we do?" repeated Miss Leslie, with a little frightened catch in her voice. She was at last beginning to realize what this rude break in her sheltered, pampered life might mean. "What shall we do? It's—it's absurd to think of having to stay in this horrid country for weeks or perhaps months—unless some ship comes for us!"

"Look here, Miss Leslie," answered Blake, sharply yet not unkindly; "suppose you just sit back and use your thinker a bit. If you're your daddy's daughter, you've got brains somewhere down under the boarding-school stuff."

"What do you mean, sir?"

"Now, don't get huffy, please! It's a question of think, not of putting on airs. Here we are, worse off than the people of the stone age. They had fire and flint axes; we've got nothing but our think tanks, and as to lions and leopards and that sort of thing, it strikes me we've got about as many on hand as they had."

"Then you and Mr. Winthrope should immediately arm yourselves."

"How?—But we'll leave that till later. What else?"

The girl gazed at the surrounding objects, her forehead wrinkled in the effort at concentration. "We must have water. Think how we suffered yesterday! Then there is shelter from wild beasts, and food, and—"

"All right here under our hands, if we had fire. Understand?"

"I understand about the water. You would frighten the leopard away with the fire; and if it would do that, it would also keep away the other animals at night. But as for food, unless we return for cocoanuts—"

"Don't give it up! Keep your thinker going on the side, while Pat tells us our next move. Now that he's got the fire sticks out of his head—"

"I say, Blake, I wish you would drop that name. It is no harder to say Winthrope."

"You're off, there," rejoined Blake. "But look here, I'll make it Win, if you figure out what we ought to do next."

"Really, Blake, that would not be half bad. They—er—they called me Win at Harrow."

"That so? My English chum went to Harrow—Jimmy Scarbridge."

"Lord James!—your chum?"

"He started in like you, sort of toplofty. But he chummed all right—after I took out a lot of his British starch with a good walloping."

"Oh, really now, Blake, you can't expect any one with brains to believe that, you know!"

"No; I don't know, you know,—and I don't know if you've got any brains, you know. Here's your chance to show us. What's our next move?"

"Really, now, I have had no experience in this sort of thing—don't interrupt, please! It seems to me that our first concern is shelter for the night. If we should return to your tree nest, we should also be near the cocoa palms."

"That's one side. Here's the other. Bar to wade across—sharks and alligators; then swampy ground—malaria, mosquitoes, thorn jungle. Guess the hands of both of you are still sore enough, by their look."

"If only I had a pot of cold cream!" sighed Miss Leslie.

"If only I had a hunk of jerked beef!" echoed Blake.

"I say, why couldn't we chance it for the night around on the seaward face of the cliff?" asked Winthrope. "I noticed a place where the ledges overhang—almost a cave. Do you think it probable that any wild beast would venture so close to the sea?"

"Can't say. Didn't see any tracks; so we'll chance it for to-night. Next?"

"By morning I believe my ankle will be in such shape that I could go back for the string of cocoanuts which we dropped on the beach."

"I'll go myself, to-day, else we'll have no supper. Now we're getting down to bedrock. If those nuts have not been washed away by the tide, we're fixed for to-night; and for two meals, such as they are. But what next? Even the rain pools will be dried up by another day or so."

"Are not sea-birds good to eat?" inquired Miss Leslie.

"Some."

"Then, if only we could climb the cliff—might there not be another place?"

"No; I've looked at both sides. What's more, that spotted tomcat has got a monopoly on our water supply. The river may be fresh at low tide; but we've got nothing to boil water in, and such bayou stuff is just concentrated malaria."

"Then we must find water elsewhere," responded Miss Leslie. "Might we not succeed if we went on to the other ridge?"

"That's the ticket. You've got a headpiece, Miss Jenny! It's too late to start now. But first thing to-morrow I'll take a run down that way, while you two lay around camp and see if you can twist some sort of fish-line out of cocoanut fiber. By braiding your hair, Miss Jenny, you can spare us your hair-pins for hooks."

"But, Mr. Blake, I'm afraid—I'd rather you'd take us with you. With that dreadful creature so near—"

"Well, I don't know. Let's see your feet?"

Miss Leslie glanced at him, and thrust a slender foot from beneath her skirt.

"Um-m—stocking torn; but those slippers are tougher than I thought. Most of the way will be good walking, along the beach. We'll leave the fishing to Pat—er—beg pardon—Win! With his ankle—"

"By Jove, Blake, I'll chance the ankle. Don't leave me behind. I give you my word, you'll not have to lug me."

"Oh, of course, Mr. Winthrope must go with us!"

"'Fraid to go alone, eh?" demanded Blake, frowning.

His tone startled and offended her; yet all he saw was a politely quizzical lifting of her brows.

"Why should I be afraid, Mr. Blake?" she asked.

Blake stared at her moodily. But when she met his gaze with a confiding smile, he flushed and looked away.

"All right," he muttered; "we'll move camp together. But don't expect me to pack his ludship, if we draw a blank and have to trek back without food or water."

CHAPTER IX.

The Leopards' Den.

WHILE Blake made a successful trip for the abandoned cocoanuts, his companions leveled the stones beneath the ledges chosen by Winthrope, and gathered enough dried sea-weed along the talus to soften the hard beds.

Soothed by the monotonous wash of the sea among the rocks, even Miss Leslie slept well. Blake, who had insisted that she should retain his coat, was wakened by the chilliness preceding the dawn. Five minutes later they started on their journey.

The starlight glimmered on the waves and shed a faint radiance over the rocks. This and their knowledge of the way enabled them to pick a path along the foot of the cliff without difficulty. Once on the beach, they swung along at a smart gait, invigorated by the cool air.

Dawn found them half way to their goal. Blake called a halt when the first red streaks shot up the eastern sky. All stood waiting until the quickly following sun sprang forth from the sea. Blake's first act was to glance from one headland to the other, estimating their relative distances. His grunt of satisfaction was lost in Winthrope's exclamation: "By Jove, look at the cattle!"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

The Public Eye.

In a little more we came to an open space, very thronged.

"The Public Eye!" shouted the megaphone man of our party.

There were some curious people within the space, but even more curious were those just outside.

Of these latter we thought certain women especially interesting; they were busily neglecting their families in order to get into the Public Eye. A pathos attached to another group of women who had been in the Public Eye and could never be happy out of it, though they couldn't in the least tell why.

Positively funny were a few men who kept trying, by a variety of drol' devices, to break into the Public Eye "Vice-presidential candidates!" our megaphone man explained.—Puck.

If you are a business man, did you ever think of the field of opportunity that advertising opens to you? There is almost no limit to the possibilities of your business if you study how to turn trade into your store. If you are not getting your share of the business of your community there's a reason. People go where they are attracted — where they know what they can get and how much it is sold for. If you make direct statements in your advertising see to it that you are able to fulfill every promise you make. You will add to your business reputation and hold your customers. It will not cost as much to run your ad in this paper as you think. It is the persistent advertiser who gets there. Have something in the paper every issue, no matter how small. We will be pleased to quote you our advertising rates, particularly on the year's business.

MAKE YOUR APPEAL

to the public through the columns of this paper. With every issue it carries its message into the homes and lives of the people. Your competitor has his store news in this issue. Why don't you have yours? Don't blame the people for flocking to his store. They know what he has.

The Home Paper Gives you the reading matter in which you have the greatest interest—the home news. Its every issue will prove a welcome visitor to every member of the family. It should head your list of newspaper and periodical subscriptions.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

JOB PRINTING

We can do the finest class of printing, and we can do that class just a little cheaper than the other fellow. Wedding invitations, letter heads, bill heads, sale bills, statements, dodgers, cards, etc., all receive the same careful treatment—just a little better than seems necessary. Prompt delivery always.

For the Hostess

Chat on Interesting Topics of Many Kinds, by a Recognized Authority

A Tramp Party.

"Now, for a tramp party," exclaimed the clever matron to whom we all looked for novel sensations when it came to entertaining, "and we'll combine it with a penny walk."

So last year just about this time the party was given which I am about to describe. It hardly seems possible that it has been almost a twelvemonth since the above remarks were made. It was not practical to use the suggestion for the department then, so I have waited for the glorious September days to return.

The invitations were issued on brown wrapping paper sealed with red wax and the time was "Saturday afternoon at three sharp." The guests were told to wear tramping costumes and each man to bring a bright, new penny. Of course, all this excited curiosity. There were just eight couples and the hostess saw that each couple was congenially mated. It was a lovely suburban place with winding streets, hills and dales; just the place for this party.

The men compared watches and the hostess explained that they were to walk for one hour, all making the start together, but at the very first corner each man was to toss his penny to decide the direction he and his partner were to take. "Heads" meant to go to the right, "tails" to the left. At every corner, the penny was to decide the direction. Instructions were given to write a three-minute description of the walk. The first couple to arrive at the expiration of the hour was to have a reward, and every minute overtime was to be paid for in pennies at the rate of one a minute, the money going to the hostess' pet charity fund.

A half hour late would bar from competition in the prize stories. It was a very jolly, hungry party that arrived and very amusing stories resulted which were read or related by the "tramps" around the table when a most bountiful supper was served.

The hostess used small tables, seating four persons at each, and the day being warm, the repast was served on the porch, which was made a perfect bower of golden rod decked with wild lavender asters that bloom so plentifully now. All you have to do to find this wealth of autumn glory is to go by street car or railroad about a score of miles into the country. After supper a fire was built in the fireplace and candles lit, the men smoked and the girls discussed winter plans. All left at eight o'clock, delighted with the "tramp" party.

Country hostesses in search of a novelty may be sure of a delightful success in giving a party along these lines.

An Introduction Party.

To break the ice at a party where the guests are unknown to each other try this plan: At a large meeting of a college fraternity, the chairman of the social committee requested each one who was to be presented to send her the name in full. There were nearly 50 people present and there were tally cards tied with the fraternity colors, each having a large number. On the reverse side of the cards given the men were the names of the girls present and the girls' cards had the names of the men. The acting hostess explained that there would be no formal introductions, that when a man or a girl thought he or she had discovered "who was who" the name, or rather the number opposite the name, was to be marked. To the one who made the largest number of "correct" acquaintances a prize was awarded, and there were special prizes for discovering the fads or peculiarities of guests. This is really a most jolly and effective method of placing a large number of strangers at their ease.

Way to Find Partners.

Of course, it was the pretty little wife of a newspaper editor who tried this way of mating partners for a large progressive party. She took "ads." from the Sunday paper and pasted them on dainty cards, distributing them so that every "want" would be supplied. For instance: "Wanted—Young girl, not over 16, to learn bookkeeping in the office of a wholesale house" was answered by the guest who held the "ad." saying that a young girl wished to learn bookkeeping.

Choosing these "ads." cleverly results in a very funny time before the real business of the evening begins, or should I say "entertainment?" To tell the truth, I have been to some parties lately that make the word "business" seem more appropriate than anything else, for the way some women play bridge and other games causes me to think that the ultimate end of parties, recreation and pleasure has been forgotten. Nowadays entertaining seems like real work not only for the hostess, but for the guests.

Chinese Dinner Menu.

What the Chinese serve at dinner is a question often asked, so Mme. Merri is delighted to give the menu served by the Chinese government to the American fleet. Pretty Blouses

ALMOST any blouse materials may be made up like these; they are, however, specially suited to tussore or washing silks. The first has bretelles with a wide hem each side, and small tucks in the center, the front and back being plain in center; the high collar is of the material slightly rucked; the Peter Pan collar of embroidered lawn.

The sleeves are somewhat uncommon, tucks being made down outside of arm and the tight-fitting lower part is tucked three times; turn-up cuffs are worn to match collar.

Material required: Three yards 34 inches wide.

The other blouse is trimmed to simulate a side fastening; the scalloped piece edged with lace frilling being fixed on under a tuck; the actual fastening is under the center box-plait that is trimmed with buttons in sets of threes; frills of lace finish the neck and sleeves.

Material required: Three yards 34 inches wide, two and three-fourths yards lace, two dozen buttons.

BACKACHE IS KIDNEYACHE.

Usually There Are Other Troubles to Prove It.

Pain in the back is pain in the kidneys, in most cases, and it points to the need of a special remedy to remove and cure the congestion or inflammation of the kidneys that is interfering with their work and causing that pain that makes you say: "Oh, my back."

Thompson Watkins, professional nurse, 420 N. 23rd St., Parsons, Kan., says: "For some time I was annoyed with sharp twinges across the small of my back and irregular passages of the kidney secretions. Since using Doan's Kidney Pills, I am free from these troubles."

BABY'S WATERY ECZEMA.

Itched and Scratched Until Blood Ran—$50 Spent on Useless Treatments—Disease Seemed Incurable.

Cured by Cuticura for $1.50.

"When my little boy was two and a half months old he broke out on both cheeks with eczema. It was the itchy, watery kind and we had to keep his little hands wrapped up all the time, and if he would happen to get them uncovered he would claw his face till the blood streamed down on his clothing. We called in a physician at once, but he gave an ointment which was so severe that my babe would scream when it was put on. We changed doctors and medicine until we had spent fifty dollars or more and baby was getting worse. I was so worn out watching and caring for him night and day that I almost felt sure the disease was incurable. But finally reading of the good results of the Cuticura Remedies, I determined to try them. I can truthfully say I was more than surprised, for I bought only a dollar and a half's worth of the Cuticura Remedies (Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills), and they did more good than all my doctors' medicines I had tried, and in fact entirely cured him. His face is perfectly clear of the least spot or scar of anything. Mrs. W. M. Comerer, Burnt Cabins, Pa., Sept. 15, 1908."

To Breaking One Neck, $2.

The "line-up" man was a facetious soul. The woman for whom he was putting up a pulley clothes-line was exacting. She ordered it put in a certain place, which it was almost impossible for him to reach. He hesitated. "If I have to put it there, lady," he said, "I'll break my neck." Still she did not relent. "All right, lady," he consented, with a cheerful grin, "but it'll cost yer $2 extry if I break my neck."

Not Asking Much.

"The president," explained one of the secretaries, "can't stop at Plunkville on his swing around the circle. In fact, my good man, we are scheduled to go through Plunkville at 60 miles an hour."

"Couldn't you throw out one of his old hats?" asked the leader of the committee, hopefully.—Washington Herald.

GENTLE REBUKE FROM PULPIT

Yet One Somehow Cannot Help Wondering Whether Sermon Was Worth Listening To.

Somewhere in the pages of her pleasant "Book of Joys" Mrs. Lucy Fitch Perkins tells a delightful story of her New England clerical great-grandfather, who was a man of ingenuity and resources. She says:

"He employed more than one device to secure wakefulness on the part of his weary congregation. Standing during the prayer was but one of many. My grandfather used to tell us with pride of an instance which occurred at a time when a new church edifice had been proposed, and was under warm discussion. Great-grandfather thought this a worldly and unnecessary expense, and emphasized his opinion by pausing in the midst of his sermon on a Sunday, saying impressively, as he fixed the somnolent members of his congregation with a stern look:

"'You are talking about building a new church. It seems to me quite unnecessary, since the sleepers in the old one are all sound!'"—Youth's Companion.

AS SOON BE WITHOUT MATCHES AS WITHOUT RESINOL IN THE HOUSE.

Resinol is the never failing article resorted to by my wife for the many bruises, chafings, cuts, burns and accidents of the children and has been our cure-all for years. I have used it in cases of irritation and inflammation and have invariably been relieved almost instantly. We would as soon think of being without matches in our house as without Resinol Ointment.

His Proper Field.

A colored man was brought before a police judge charged with stealing chickens. He pleaded guilty and received sentence, when the judge asked how it was he managed to lift those chickens right under the window of the owner's house when there was a dog loose in the yard. "Hit wouldn't be no use, judge," said the man, "to try to 'splain this thing to yo' all. Ef you was to try it you like as not would get yer hide full of shot an' get no chickens, nuther. Ef yo' want to engage in any rascality, judge, yo' better stick to de bench, whar yo' am familiar."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Many Were in the Same Boat.

According to the Saturday Evening Post, this is a story heard with much glee by congress during the last days of the Roosevelt administration:

During the recent cold spell in Washington, a man, shivering and ragged, knocked at the door of a K street house and said to the lady: "Please, madam, give me something to eat. I am suffering severely from exposure."

"You must be more specific," the lady replied. "Are you a member of the senate or of the house?"

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Good to Her Husband.

"George, dear," said Mrs. Dovekins, who had come downstairs in time to pour the coffee, "I'm going to walk to the car with you this morning. Aren't you glad?"

"Very glad, indeed, lovey. It's so nice of you to think of me and to get up early for the purpose of making it unnecessary to walk those dismal three blocks alone. How much do you want?"

Expensive Silence.

Little four-year-old Alice was lying on the floor whining and crying steadily one afternoon, until, her father's patience exhausted, he called out to her: "Oh, stop, Alice, and I'll give you a penny."

Alice stopped only long enough to answer: "I can't stop for less than a nickel! Boohoo! Boohoo!"

Importance of Proper Breathing.

Improper breathing is a frequent cause of consumption. A large majority of people are too lazy or too ignorant to breathe deep, and hence the lungs are developed only to part of their capacity and thus afford fertile field for the growth of the tuberculosis germ.

Didn't Stay There.

Father—Didn't I tell you I would whip you if I caught you in the water again?

Son—Yes, sir, and that's the reason I hurried out when I saw you coming.

The highest medical authority on foods,

Sir James Crichton Browne, LL. D.—F. R. S. of London, gives the best reasons for eating more

Quaker Oats

In an article published in the Youth's Companion of September 23rd, 1909, Dr. Browne, the great medical authority on foods, says, about brain and muscle building—

"There is one kind of food that seems to me of marked value as a food to the brain and to the whole body throughout childhood and adolescence (youth), and that is oatmeal.

"Oats are the most nutritious of all the cereals, being richer in fats, organic phosphorus and lecithins."

He says oatmeal is gaining ground with the well-to-do of Great Britain. He speaks of it as the mainstay of the Scottish laborer's diet and says it produces a big-boned, well-developed, mentally energetic race.

His experiments prove that good oatmeal such as Quaker Oats not only furnishes the best food for the human being, but eating it strengthens and enlarges the thyroid gland—this gland is intimately connected with the nourishing processes of the body.

In conclusion he says—"It seems probable therefore that the bulk and brawniness of the Northerners (meaning the Scotch) has been in some measure due to the stimulation of the thyroid gland by oatmeal porridge in childhood."

The Scotch eat Quaker Oats because it is the best of all oatmeals.

Dorothy and the Stork.

When little Dorothy Walworth was introduced to her baby brother in the First Methodist Episcopal Parsonage in Yonkers, N. Y., she manifested intense interest, but was not astonished.

"I knew he was coming," she exclaimed; "I knew it."

Pressed for an explanation, the five-year-old said: "I was down to the Bronx zoo the other day and saw the stork in his cage. I recognized him by the black stripes on his wings that papa said were there. Well, when the stork was standing alone on one leg, I went close to him and whispered in his ear that I wanted him to bring me a baby brother or sister. He didn't say anything, but I knew he would do it, because he bent his head toward me and winked an eye."

New Geyser in Yellowstone Park.

For a few days past there have been indications of an eruption of some kind near the Fountain hotel in Yellowstone park, says a dispatch from Mammoth Hot Springs, Wyo. Now a new and magnificent geyser has broken out in full force about 100 feet north of the regular Fountain geyser near Fountain hotel. This new geyser, which does not appear to affect any of the others in that vicinity, played to a height of 150 to 200 feet, throwing off immense quantities of hot water, mud and steam. The new geyser does not play regularly as does Old Faithful, but at short intervals, the eruptions occurring five or six hours apart, and lasting about one hour.

Is Poor Consolation.

"Yes, it must be a terrible thing to go through life without your limb. But you must remember it will be restored to you in the next world."

"I know it will, mum, but dat don't encourage me, for it was cut off when I was a baby, an' it won't come within a couple of foot of de ground w'en it's restored."

The Best Kind Of Life Insurance

is health insurance. The best way to insure the health of your family when any member gets in a "run-down" condition, is to use a tonic that removes the cause of the ill-health. Such a tonic is

DR. D. JAYNE'S TONIC VERMIFUGE

A "run down" condition is generally due to the failure of the digestive organs to properly digest the food. Dr. D. Jayne's Vermifuge tones up the digestive organs so that they supply the body with proper nourishment, and in this way bring about lasting health. Ordinary tonics simply supply food material in predigested form, and consequently are only effective as long as the tonic is taken.

Breezy County News

FIRST FORK

All the teachers have flocked to the county Institute at Emporium.

J. E. Bowers transacted business at Sinnamahoning.

Our correspondent "Nuf Sed" gave us a complete account of the bear captured in the upper end of the Valley in last week's issue. In addition to that list are the following which have been captured nearer Sinnamahoning: L. C. Wykoff, one bear; W. H. Miller, two bear, and Anson Logue, two bear. Many others are at the same work, but at this writing without success. Some have purchased new traps. Quite a few have been captured at Sinnamahoning. Those which have been captured are small. Let us hear from Jim. Batchelder with a bear story.

Harry E. Elliot, of Sinnamahoning, who has general charge of the forests in this vicinity, transacted business at First Fork.

Fin Johnson, who works for the Sinnamahoning Powder Manufacturing Co., spent Sunday with his family.

W. J. Buck and son, of Ridgway, who have many friends on First Fork, spent a short time here last week. Mr. Buck is conductor on the P. R. R., from Ridgway to Renovo. He enjoys hunting very much and is always with the Miller crew. He is already making preparations for the great deer season, which is close at hand.

Bernice St. Clair, daughter of H. L. St. Clair, died last Friday. She was taken to the Lock Haven Hospital Thursday, and died before operating on her. She had been in poor health for some time. She was buried in the Miller cemetery. Preaching by Rev. Runyan in Miller school house, Sunday afternoon. She was aged 15 years, and was a good christian girl. She leaves many friends behind her. The parents have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

Our citizens should not forget that Cameron county has two gentlemen of experience and integrity on the ticket this fall. They are Frank L. Miller, of First Fork, for Jury Commissioner and William J. Leavitt, of Shippen Township, for Prothonotary, Register and Recorder. They are both native born residents of Cameron county and certainly deserve the patronage of the people. They have very little opposition but a vote will be appreciated by them just the same. Do your duty on election day.

The Best Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound on to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with lame back or pains in the side or chest give it a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. This liniment also relieves rheumatic pains and is certain to please anyone suffering from that disease. Sold by G. C. Taggart.

C. B. Kinger, the Jeweler, 1060 Virginia Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all kidney sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed." Sold by all druggists.

You need not have Dyspepsia or Indigestion, nor do you need to be troubled in any way with your stomach, if you will simply take Kodol at those times when you feel that you need it. Kodol is guaranteed to relieve you. If it fails your money will be refunded to you by the druggists from whom you purchased it. Kodol digests all the food you eat. It is pleasant to take. Sold by all druggists.

Well Known Hotel Keeper Uses and Recommends Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"I take pleasure in saying that I have kept Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in my family medicine chest for about fifteen years, and have always had satisfactory results from its use. I have administered it to a great many traveling men who were suffering from troubles for which it is recommended and have never failed to relieve them," says J. C. Jenkins, of Glasgow, Ky This remedy is for sale by G. C. Taggart

More Than Enough is Too Much.

To maintain health, a mature man or woman needs just enough food to repair the waste and supply energy and body heat. The habitual consumption of more food than is necessary for these purposes is the prime cause of stomach troubles, rheumatism and disorders of the kidneys. If troubled with indigestion, revise your diet, let reason and not appetite control and take a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and you will soon be all right again. For sale by G. C. Taggart.
